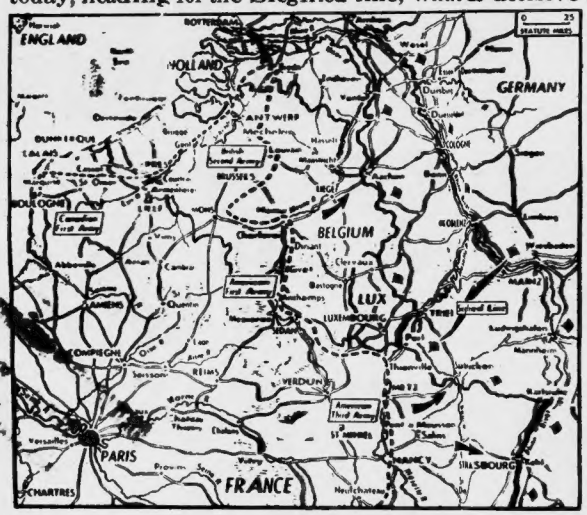
Going Gets Tough

Forts at Metz Battle Patton

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP) — The American First and Third Armies hammered eastward on two broad fronts toward Germany today, heading for the Siegfried line, where a decisive battle, perhaps the last great battle of the war in Europe, may be fought.



Arrows indicate Allied drives on Germany's frontier defenses which were reported under way today from British-held positions in northern Belgium and from American First and Third Armies' bridgeheads on the Meuse and Moselle rivers. Broken line is approximate front, based on official announcements which today reported the Canadian and British forces in the northwestern sector were edging closer to the channel coast.

CBS reported unofficially from Rome American armies from north and south France had joined forces at an undisclosed point near the German border. These forces were named as Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army and Lt. Gen. Patch's Seventh Army.

Patton's army, moving to the Moselle river on a front of more than 50 miles from Luxembourg to Nancy, wedged into the outskirts of the fortress city of Metz on the river's east bank.

It had won one costly bridgehead across the Moselle.

Attacking north and south of Metz, the Americans ran into fierce artillery fire as Nazi resistance stiffened under orders to hold out to the last in a desperate time-gaining buffer stand in front of the menaced Siegfried Line.

Front line dispatches said there had been no additional crossings of the Moselle since the Americans breached the river in strength yesterday after a week's delay caused by supply difficulties.

Rains and heavy mist clinging to the countryside cancelled out air support and interfered with land operations.

It was estimated the Third Army has captured 76,000 Germans, wounded 66,000, and killed 20,000.

Striking on a front almost as broad, Hodges' First Army strode forth from bridgeheads scattered over 40 miles along the Meuse river from Namur to Anchamps in southeast Belgium.

The First Army thrust perhaps was the more dangerous for the Germans, for it was aimed across the Ardennes and the northern tip of the Duchy of Luxembourg along the route used by the invading Germans in 1940 and at a weaker link of the Siegfried line.

Russians in Yugoslavia, Send Chutes to Tito's Aid

MOSCOW, Sept. 7 (AP)—Russian troops were reported fighting within 90 miles of Belgrade today and were believed already to have ferried the Danube and reached Yugoslav soil south of the Iron Gate gorge where the mighty river cuts through the Transylvania Alps.

The Red Army might be using parachute troops in an effort to establish a junction with Marshal Tito's Partisan army scattered through the rugged mountains inside Yugoslavia's northeast frontier.

Turnu-Severin, on the frontier, was captured yesterday and the Russians pursued the Germans through the Iron Gate and were reported fighting today for Orsova on the Danube, well beyond the gorge and 90 miles due east of the Yugoslav capital.

In north Poland, a great battle that may liberate Warsaw and carry the war into East Prussia increased in violence, with two Russian groups attacking along a 35-mile front along the Narew river and on the close eastern approaches of the Polish capital.

The Narew fortress town of Ostroleka was toppled yesterday and the Russians moved on 23 miles from the border of East Prussia.

Red Star declared 791,000 Germans were killed on the long eastern front in the summer offensive from June 23 through Aug. 31, and said "this means the Red army in nine weeks has exterminated a German army greater than that sent against the Allies." Hundreds of thousands were reported captured.

Runout Powder?

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—CBS Correspondent Howard K. Smith reported from Bern today that Hitler's personal interpreter and confidant, is reported to be in Switzerland "to take a cure."

"The visitor is Dr. Paul Schmidt, Hitler's famous interpreter and one of the Fuehrer's few intimates," Smith said. "Dr. Schmidt is said to be taking a cure at a bath resort in the Swiss canton of Grisons.

"Next to Hitler and Himmler, Paul Schmidt is reputed to know more about the inside history of Nazi Germany than any man living. He has interpreted for Hitler at every reception and international conference in Germany for the past nine years. Schmidt's picture has never appeared in a German newspaper and his actions are watched and probably directed by the Gestapo.

"What illness brings Schmidt to Switzerland is not known, but observers cannot help suspecting that it belongs to that variety of disease known as 'diplomatic.'"

London Hails End of Robot Peril

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Disclosing new details of the robot bombings, the government declared today the Battle of London is over "except possibly for the last few shots," as Lt. Col. Edwin Duncan Sandys revealed that perfected defenses and Allied encirclement of the robot bomb coast had virtually ended the menace.

Sandys disclosed 2900 Allied airmen and 450 planes had been lost in the 18-month campaign against the robots, in addition to more than 5000 deaths in England.

Sandys said fighter planes had downed 1900 robots. Gen. Sir Frederick Pile, commander-in-chief of the Anti-Aircraft Command, said guns knocked down an additional 1560. The balloon barrage was credited with bringing down 15 per cent of the robots which escaped the fighters and guns.

"Only our fastest fighters possess the high speed needed to overtake a bomb in level flight," Sandys said.

Newsmen at Sandys' press conference brought away the impression that the Allied advance along the French coast had knocked out the Germans' V-2, reputedly a much heavier rocket bomb than the V-1 launched against London, before it could be used.

The defense afforded by the balloon barrage, antiaircraft guns and fighters was perfected to such a high degree that 97 of 101 bombs fired at England Aug. 28 were shot down, he said.

"This form of attack can, of course, be carried on from airfields in the heart of Germany," he said. "We cannot as yet assure the public that the flying bomb attacks will cease altogether. We can, however, be reasonably confident that the scale of attack will be very small."

"Our American allies," Sandys said, "have thrown themselves into the job of beating the bombs with as much energy and enthusiasm as though New York or Washington had been the victim of the attack.

"Necessary priority was given to our needs here by President Roosevelt himself in response to the personal request of the Prime Minister."

Sandys said the antiaircraft gun belt was moved down to the coast about the middle of July so that the gunners could get an uninterrupted view. About 1100 guns were moved.

Sandys related that a special test of the robot bomb was conducted for Hitler in the Balkans some time ago.

"A German fighter ace flying a captured Spitfire demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Fuehrer that British fighters did not possess the necessary speed to intercept the flying bomb," Sandys said. "They reckoned without the increased efficiency of our latest fighter and overlooked the superior skill and resource of our pilots."

U. S. Casualties Total 365,759

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—American Army casualties through the first three weeks of the Normandy invasion were about one-half the expected figure, War Sec. Stimson said today.

For July and August, they were "slightly less" than had been estimated, Stimson added.

Army casualties for all theaters since the start of the war based on reports to next of kin through Aug. 21 totaled 305,795, an increase of 20,957 since the report a week ago.

Navy casualties reported up to now total 59,964, an increase of 1611 from the previous week. This gives a combined Army-Navy casualty total of 365,759.

Nazis Now Deny Bulgaria War

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Transocean broadcast from Berlin today a dispatch quoting a German Foreign Office spokesman as confirming that Bulgaria had declared war against Germany, but an hour later the agency corrected this to say he confirmed the breaking off of diplomatic relations and not a declaration of war.

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Germany ordered its eighth grade pupils into war work and sent thousands of Red Cross men and women into armament plants today in far-reaching extensions of total mobilization decrees.

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Sir Thomas Merton, a British scientist, devised a 20-cent range finder for antiaircraft batteries which solves the problem of sighting on a rocket bomb against its dazzling jet flame, it was disclosed today.

RAF Pounds German Bases

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Despite dismal wather, RAF Mosquitos based in Britain hammered the German seport of Hamburg last night while other Mosquitos based in Frave strafed Nazi transport from Utrecht to Arnhem in the Netherlands and near Duesseldorf in Germay.

A strong force of RAF heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, smashed at the smaller port of Emden just before dark yesterday.

Yanks in Italy Occupy Lucca

ROME, Sept. 7 (AP)—American troops have occupied Lucca, 10 miles northeast of Pisa, and driven the Germans within less than six miles of the main Gothic Line, Allied headquarters announced today.

MAJ. FRED J. CHRISTENSEN, JR., WITH PARENTS
Watertown Ace Home on Leave

Army to Decide If Air Ace Weds

Maj. Fred J. Christensen, 22, of Wilmot st., Watertown, New England's top scoring ace, left for Washington today to let the Army decide whether or not he claims his bride-to-be at once.

She is Miss Rosemond Gethro of Catherine rd., Watertown, his schooldays' sweetheart and the girl for whom he named his death-dealing plane the "Rozzie Geth".

With his socre of Nazi planes reading 22, the young flying major wants a crack at the Japs. But if the Army turns down this request he will dash to wed Miss Gethro at Detroit, where she is now employed.

"Whether or not I marry during my 21-day furlough depends on whether or not I go back into combat again," he said. "A married man does not make a good fighter pilot."

Aside from marriage and a try at the Japs, Christensen seemed most interested in quaffing milk, gulping it down by the glassful. He carried plenty of it in Europe and England but didn't have much of it for himself.

"There's not much left to the war in Europe," he said before leaving Boston. "The Nazi fliers are about all done and I think the Japs will be a whole lot easier."

During 500 hours in the air, 300 of them in combat, the Watertown flier did plenty to the Germans. A total of 22 of them went down before his flaming guns while six other Nazi ships were destroyed on the ground.

Maj. Christensen got six planes in one day,—in fact, in just two minutes. It was over Magdeburg when he had to fly through flak almost thick enough to walk on.

Out of a dozen Nazi planes that tried to get up from a flying field 10 went down in flames. He alone accounted for half a dozen.

His hottest fight was on D-Day when, with 11 other fighters he encountered 25 or 30 Messerschmidts. His group alone accounted for 11 of the enemy. Over Caen, flak went through his plane in so many places that it was crippled. But he managed to get the plane back.

ROSEMOND GETHRO
Wedding Waits on Army Orders

Just before he left England, he was promoted from captain to major. He has received the Distinguished Flying Cross with five oak leaf clusters, the Silver Star with one cluster, the Air Medal with three clusters and the Combat Patch, which is worn under the wings. The Patch was awarded to the five most valuable fliers in his group.

Since being assigned to the Eighth Air Force, based in England, Maj. Christensen has flown on 100 combat missions. His home-coming may result in a reunion, as his brother Lt. Kenneth Christensen, stationed at Maxton Air Base, N. C., expects to be here shortly on a furlough. He is an airplane pilot assigned to towing gliders.

3-Legged Dog Welcomes Footless Vet From Wars

ATLANTA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Speck, a Manchester terrier, scrambled down the hospital ward on his three legs and leaped on the bed where his master PFC Roy O'Dell of Warsaw, Va., lay.

The dog looked at the soldier's legs, which he had sniffed ever so many times back home, and sensed there was something wrong. He began to bark.

Then he leaped into O'Dell's arms and started licking his face. Tears filled O'Dell's eyes as he fondled his pet.

For like Speck, whose left foreleg was amputated after he was run over by a truck three years ago, O'Dell has a similar handicap—only greater.

Both his legs have been amputated below the knee.

He was hit by a 40-mm. anti-aircraft shell during a bombing raid at Wadkie, New Guinea.

The dog was brought to Lawson General Hospital, Atlanta, by Mrs. Eloise O'Dell. O'Dell hadn't seen the dog, his wife and 15-month-old son since entering the army in April, 1943.

"Having his leg amputated never bothered Speck," said the veteran as he played with the frisky black and tan terrier, "so I guess I'll get along too."

Lake Goes 10 Miles Beyond U. S. Lines

By AUSTEN LAKE

ON THE ROAD TO BERLIN, With Third Army, Sept. 5 (By Wireless) —Let this be a lesson to me. Never again will I drive beyond the U. S. battle lines until they install stop and go traffic signals to show where the American front ends and the German begins. This morning I was pushing along at 40 m.p.h. with John Prince of the London Times and Philip Grune of the London Standard, who ought to have known better, too.

We were hitting a smart clip well beyond Verdun and inhaling the tonic air of this blue and gold September.

A few refugee bicyclists passed by, but little else. Gradually it dawned on our combined minds, if any, that this was a curiously deserted road for such an important Army artery, yet occasionally we saw isolated (censored) and even camouflaged (censored) with men in Army mustard standing near, so we rollicked along blissfully oblivious till we came to a fair-sized village.

The thing that struck us as odd was the attitude of these French people, who stood around in slack postures doing nothing. They didn't wave at us as is the almost psychopathic French custom to comparative newcomer Americans.

Most noticeable of all was that the French children shied away at a tactful distance as though we had measles.

"Something balmy here," said Prince in his sing song voice, and there was. It was us. Not that the inhabitants were exactly hostile, neither were they cordial. They just didn't want any part of us, and we soon found out why.

A pair of American GIs in dun-colored jumpers came over the rise just ahead and approached us with wondering grins.

"How far are our lines?" we asked. They looked at each other and laughed. "About ten miles back where you came from," said the taller of the two. "Yeh," said the other, "our reconnaissance patrols are just beyond this town."

Suddenly it was clear why the French inhabitants were so non-enthusiastic. They were afraid that the Boche with his knack for terrorism would counterattack and retake this no man's land, then punish the people for popularizing the enemy. For the town was not technically liberated yet, and from four years of bitter experience the French weren't going to hail any conquerors until they were sure

Hirohito Warns Japs of Defeat

By the Associated Press

Emperor Hirohito warned the Japanese Diet today the war situation was "becoming more intense" and Premier Koiso said the empire must concentrate its total power to combat mounting American attacks and possible invasion.

Broadcasts from Tokyo reported these and other developments at the 85th extraordinary session of Japan's lawmakers:

The Emperor, appearing in military uniform, said Jap soldiers were fighting bravely, that relations betwen Japan and the occupied countries were strengthening and that "the construction of greater East Asia is progressing step by step."

"However," he said, "the counteroffensive of the enemy is becoming increasingly fierce and the war situation is finally becoming more intense. Truly today is the time for imperial Japan to decide the victory by massing her total strength."

Koiso, making his first speech to the Diet since he took over the government from Gen. Hideki Tojo last July, said:

"At the present stage of the war—when enemy attacks upon our homeland are likely to increase in frequency and scale we might do well to consider the possibility of their landing on our home soil—we must indeed concentrate our total power and, with burning enthusiasm to safeguard our national policy by offering our all and with renewed determination to fight through this war, exhaust every means in our human possession while praying for divine guidance to our august deities with purity of heart."

Koiso spoke during a temporary lull in the American aerial offensive which in the last week has bombed every important Jap defensive island within a 2,900-mile triangle fanning south of Japan.

Newest air blows included the first land-based raid on Marcus island, 1200 miles southeast of Tokyo, the sixth consecutive strike at Iwo in the Volcano islands, 750 miles south of the imperial capital; the sinking of three more freighters in southern Philippine waters, and continued neutralization of airdromes around Davao, major city on Mindanao.

In southeast China Jap armies pressed on from captured Kiyang, 30 miles from the U. S. air base at Liuchow.

After a swift four-mile advance, Allied troops have regained contact with Jap forces retreating into western Burma on the Tiddim road.

On the Chindwin river front, other Allied forces relentlessly hunted down stragglers from the Jap retreat.

Huck Finnegan's articles from overseas about New England boys, which have been appearing in the Boston Evening American, will appear in the Daily Record beginning with Friday's issue, on sale this evening.

Demands F. D. Clear Self Of Pearl Harbor Blame

By DAVID SENTNER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—Offering documentary evidence on the House floor that high officials of the Army, Navy and diplomatic corps had continuously warned the Administration of a "sneak" Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, Rep. Hugh D. Scott (R.) of Pennsylvania called on President Roosevelt to absolve himself from blame in connection with the disaster.

Referring to the President's self-designated role as "commander-in-chief of the nation for 11 years" in his campaign for a fourth term, Scott demanded that the public be permitted to pass judgment on how he had discharged his duties by obtaining answers to such questions as:

Did not a high ranking naval officer call on the commander-in-chief and ask permission to get the fleet out of Pearl Harbor and did not the fleet remain there despite warnings of the Jap plan to attack it there?

Wasn't the Pacific fleet kept in Pearl Harbor in response to request from Hawaiian businessmen despite the protests from top naval commanders?

Didn't Harry Hopkins (White House aide), as a member of the Munitions Assignment Board, transfer to Great Britain 250 Navy planes needed at Pearl Harbor?

Did not the Australian government learn that a Japanese fleet was steaming toward Pearl Harbor and inform our government at Washington on the night of Dec. 6?

Did not our government transmit the information to naval and military authorities at Pearl Harbor about 6:30 a. m. on Dec. 7 (Hawaiian Time) by commercial cable and was not the message received seven hours after the attack?

FLEET REMAINED

Isn't it a fact that despite the public address of the Secretary of the Navy on Nov. 11 that the Pacific no less than the Atlantic called for instant readiness for defense, nevertheless, no orders were given to put the Army and Navy on the number one alert in the Pacific at this time and the fleet remained at Pearl Harbor?

Would not Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, naval commander at Pearl Harbor, testify that he had no knowledge whatever of the nature of the ultimatum to Japan of Nov. 26. Was this ultimatum a ten-day ultimatum and did it expire at midnight of Dec. 6, 1941, or was it limited as to time at all? (Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, Army commander at Pearl Harbor, are awaiting court martial proceedings.)

Adm. Kimmel

Gen. Short

WHERE WAS CHIEF?

What did the Commander-in-Chief do to prepare our armed forces at Pearl Harbor for the ending of the diplomatic negotiations and the initiation of hostilities by the treacherous Japanese?

When the fleet was split in two in the summer of 1941 and part of it sent to the Atlantic by the order of the Commander-in-Chief against the best judgment of many naval authorities, as soon as the last aircraft carrier passed through the Canal, did not the Japanese government proceed with the occupation of French Indo-China? Was not this because our fleet was no longer a balanced fleet and the Pacific fleet no longer existed in strength sufficient to assure our security in those waters?

Did not Admiral Kimmel continually protest the stripping of the Pacific fleet and particularly point out the danger inherent in the transfer of destroyers to the Atlantic?

Rep. Scott culled from the State Department volume "Peace and War" to show that on Nov. 29, 1941, Secretary of State Hull conferred with the British ambassador and said:

"The diplomatic part of our relations with Japan was virtually over and that the matter will now go to the officials of the Army and Navy."

Hull added: "Japan may move suddenly and with every possible element of surprise."

"Did the fleet remain in Pearl Harbor and was any change in the alert ordered by the commander-in-chief?" Scott asked.

JAP-NAZI PACT

Scott said that in mid-June of 1941, he had personal knowledge "that it was common talk in the War and Navy Departments that Japan planned to attack Pacific bases by surprise and that an agreement existed between Japan and Germany that Germany would declare war on us within one week after the Japanese attack on our Pacific bases."

He referred to the fleet being kept in Pearl Harbor during the delicate negotiations in Washington with the Jap envoys and added:

"Naval officers present at the time have informed me that the concentration in Pearl Harbor during the time shortly before the disaster was greater than any concentration they had ever known."

Scott suggested that this concentration of the fleet which led to its being decimated "like sitting ducks" by the Japs on Dec. 7 was linked directly to the White House.

Dewey Starts First Tour of Campaign

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey set forth today, accompanied by 97 persons on an 11-car train, for the first wartime presidential speaking campaign conducted by any candidate since the era of Abraham Lincoln.

With Mrs. Dewey and a 21-member staff, the GOP nominee planned to leave New York city this morning for Philadelphia where he will open his active drive for the Presidency with a 30-minute speech tonight in Convention Hall.

Besides talking to the 70-odd reporters accompanying him on a 6700-mile trip that will take him to the Pacific Coast and back by Sept. 23, Dewey arranged to meet with representatives of service men, labor, Negro and Republican women's organizations.

After a visit to Independence Hall, Dewey planned an off-the-record conference with publishers of rural and weekly newspapers of the state before his formal speech at night. Leaving immediately thereafter, he was to proceed to Louisville, Ky., for a talk tomorrow night before the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs.

Sailor Grilled In M'Grath Death

State police stepped in today to take over a 20-year-old Navy deserter for questioning concerning the brutal murder of Frances McGrath after he was arraigned in Roxbury district court on a morals charge involving an eight-year-old boy.

The sailor allegedly jumped his ship May 8 and since then has been living at various addresses.

State police are anxious to check his movements, particularly on June 10 when the McGrath girl dropped from sight after an evening visit to a Scituate Harbor bowling alley.

The sailor, who gave his address as Thornton st., Roxbury, was arrested on the morals charge after he had taken the boy to a Huntington ave., Back Bay, apartment and attacked him.

After listening to testimony of the brutal nature of the attack, in which the boy was seriously injured, Judge Samuel J. Eisenstadt ordered the sailor held without bail, saying:

"If it was in my power, I'd send you to prison for 20 years right now."

The culprit was taken to Charles st. jail, where investigators of the McGrath girl's murder planned to question him.

Dear Dad in Guam: Picture Is on Way

The picture of four adoring East Boston youngsters today was en route to Guam and their fighting dad, who hopes to carry it with him into Tokyo.

ON PATROL—Chief Yeoman James E. Foley of East Fifth st., South Boston, is now on duty aboard a Coast Guard manned destroyer escort, patroling the convoy lanes along which pass the men and equipment bound for the fighting fronts.

The dad is Ralph E. Pemberton of Ashland st., Orient Heights, Pho. M 2 c, USN, and the youngsters are Colin, 14, Lewis, 11, Paul, 10, and Marie, 6.

All four came to the Boston Evening American office to get their pictures taken in accordance with a wish expressed in their father's latest letter.

In the invasion of Guam, Pemberton lost the picture that he had kept at his heart ever since he went off to the wars. He wanted another, and with it they sent this message: "We love you. Good luck, and come home to us soon."

In his letter, Pemberton told his children: "I've had close shaves two or three times a day. I've been shelled by mortar fire. We live in foxholes. But we get good hot meals, and with your picture to give me spirit I know I'll get by all right."

Army invaded Belgium for the first time, sending an armored Polish division into the famous Canadian battleground of Ypres, 10 miles inside Belgium.

The Canadians, already on both sides of Calais, in northern France, advanced to within seven miles west and southwest of the Dunkirk graveyard of 1940 and prepared to besiege Germans in the Belgian coastal strongholds of Ostend and Zeebrugge.

The boasted West Wall, which the Germans began building eight years ago, was about to undergo its greatest test.

"Within these fortifications the Germans must make their last great stand in defense of their homeland—and this decisive battle cannot be far distant," Correspondent Don Whitehead wirelessed from the First Army front.

Whitehead's dispatch declared Hodges' troops were moving at a speed which "soon may bring Germany proper within range of our big guns."

A British drive into Holland was blacked out under a security cloak, but to the west in Belgium Tommies captured Ghent and entered Courtrai without resistance.

Armentieres, French town made famous by a first World War sing, fell to other British forces who pushed 18 miles beyond Lille to Merville, clearing or crossing the entire Lys river line in a close-in on the channel coast.

In the Pas-de-Calais bulge British troops stood on the coast opposite Dover and Folkestone where they had fought 200 miles from Normandy back into the sight of England.

Just back from the coast the British advanced beyond St. Omer and Cassel into the zone where the Germans were reported to have built concrete emplacements for their threatened 10-ton vengeance rockets.

Democrat Paper Out for Dewey

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7 (INS)—The influential and normally independent-Democratic Cleveland Plain Dealer today announced its support of Thomas E. Dewey for President. It was the second time in the 103-year history of the newspaper that it has fully endorsed a Republican candidate for that office.

In a one and a half-column editorial, the newspaper opened its declaration for Dewey with the statement:

"Because it is no use to win the war and lose America that we love, the Plain Dealer supports Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency."

The newspaper charged in the succeeding paragraph, "Give us four more years of Roosevelt and we shall have a totalitarian Socialist country."

First School Day Turns Out Swell

By ALICE BISSELL

Father in Heaven
We pray to Thee
That good children
We may be.

This was the first lesson learned today by the kindergarten children at Abraham Lincoln school in the biggest and most frightening day of their little lives.

By noon they could recite it together, though some were only 4 years and 2 months old, and they prayed hard because many had fathers at sea and on the battlefronts.

How hard it was for them to fight back the tears when their mothers left them at the great big brick school.

Five-year-old Diana Yeroyan of Casele st. was crying until Christo Lagos, 4½, of Compton st., all dolled up in blue jeans and a clean white shirt, asked her to build blocks with him.

Fernando Duro, 5, of Village st., hid his fright beneath a big chocolate lollipop, and Eleanor Martell, 4½, of Tremont st., bravely drew figures with one hand and hid her moist handkerchief in the other.

The American flag flew outside the window, and their kind teacher, Mildred Parsons, told them she knew it was hard to leave home for the first time, but to think of their brave brothers and fathers who had to go a lot further from home and didn't shed a single tear. Then she added:

"If you are good children you will always be thankful you have homes in America to comfort you after a big adventure like this first day of school. You must be brave, because home will look just as nice to your fathers when they come home from war to you."

Their eyes were wide with wonder, and they felt it was all true as Miss Parsons told them the most beautiful story they ever heard.

It was about a princess who fell out of her nutshell home. She went on terrible adventures, riding on a grasshopper's back, riding across ponds on the shiny backs of trout. And suddenly when she felt lost a robin who understood her fright sang to her and flew her back to her nutshell.

Dry V-Day Plan Sped by Towns

Massachusetts communities already are taking steps to halt the sale of liquor on V-Day although the State has taken no definite action as yet on plans for celebrating the day when sirens, bells and whistles will announce the capitulation of Germany.

City Mgr. John J. Flannery, of Lowell, announced today that sales of alcoholic beverages of all types in that city will be halted for a period of 24 hours as soon as the air raid sirens hail the end of the European conflict.

Methuen's board of selectmen also voted to direct all liquor establishments to close for the balance of the day as soon as the news is received.

Mayor Albert W. Glynn of Haverhill announced he was considering a similar plan for V-Day in his city.

Gov. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island announced plans for a gala celebration with state and municipal offices, banks, public schools, most retail businesses and single-shift industries closing for a day and one-half after announcement of the end of the war in Europe.

Tighe Charged With Murder

Joseph A. Tighe, 45, former Boston police officer, was ordered held without bail for hearing Sept. 12 on a charge of murder by Judge Samuel J. Eisenstadt today in Roxbury District Court in connection with the fatal burning of his wife, Catherine, 32.

Tighe answered in the negative when Judge Eisenstadt asked him if he wished hearing today on the changing of the charge to murder from one of assault with intent to murder.

Mrs. Tighe died at City Hospital of burns suffered in a mysterious fire in their apartment in Mountfort st., Back Bay, last Sunday night.

Lt. Joseph B. Fallon of the homicide squad told the court the fatal burns suffered by Mrs. Tighe allegedly were caused by her husband and asked that the charge be changed to murder and that Tighe be held without bail.

He said investigation indicated that Mrs. Tighe caught fire while sitting in an easy chair of the living room of the apartment.

Prowler's Gas Attacks Probed

MATTOON, Ill., Sept. 7—Army chemists, state and local police all were enlisted today in frantic search for a gas-spraying prowler—either a burglar or sex-maniac—who in the last five nights has left nine persons ill or partly paralyzed.

Most of the victims have been women, the latest Mrs. Carl Cordes, who reported: "I felt as though a charge of electricity went through me."

All efforts to identify the mystery gas, usually sprayed into bedrooms, thus far have failed. It is described by the victims as sweet and sickening.

No motive has been found for the attacks.

A spokesman for the Army Chemical Warfare Service said that reports of the victim's reaction indicated that chlorpicrin, a commercial gas often used by exterminators and easily obtainable, might have been used by the prowler. War gases virtually are unobtainable for civilians, he said.

Day's Short Stories

Rag-Tag Nazis

ZURICH, Sept. 7 (INS)—Contrast in the German army's appearance in France today with the proud, strutting Nazis of a few weeks ago was drawn today by a traveler from Strasbourg.

"German troops are in a condition unimaginable in the German army only a few weeks ago," he said.

The unidentified traveler described the fleeing Nazis as "indescribably dirty, weary, ragged, hungry, beaten to a standstill, without officers, in straggling groups with their heavy materiel long since abandoned."

No More Doorns!

MOSCOW, Sept. 7 (AP)—Izvestia, official government newspaper, criticized today pleas for mercy on behalf of the German people which it said had been made by Pope Pius XII and two Americans.

"There are people who hope that Doorn Castles (the Kaiser's Dutch refuge after 1918) awaits the Hitlerite clique," the newspaper said in an editorial on international affairs. "Vain hope!"

The Car Was His!

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—Martin Fainman was on his way to a garage to get his automobile when he witnessed an accident. A car and a street car collided and the auto was tossed into the path of a second street car. Fainman looked at the wreckage, discovered it was his machine, being driven to his home by the garage owner, who was injured.

Serpent's Tale

SANDPOINT, Idaho, Sept. 7 (AP)—A Sandpoint man says he, too, has seen the well-publicized sea serpent of Payette lake, and gives a one-word description, "beavers."

Paul Walter said the "serpent" appeared to be 30 or 40 feet long and was traveling slowly in the water. He focused his field glasses and saw the heads and tails of three beavers swimming single-file.

"Papa, mama and baby beaver out for a swim," said Walter.

At Last—Jackpot!

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7 (AP)—J. Harry Jones, the Star's city hall reporter, has been eating at a lunchroom in the city hall ever since it opened. The place's cash register occasionally rings up a star with the check—which means it's on the house.

Jones' star finally came up . . . when he bought a penny box of matches!

1265 Strike, 14,500 War Workers Idle

DETROIT, Sept. 7 (AP)—Strikes of 1265 maintenance men closed one Detroit war plant today and hampered another. More than 14,500 workers were idle.

At the Conner aircraft plant all 11,200 employes were sent home because of a walkout of 264 maintenance men. Packard Motor Car Co. officials said they were forced to lay off 2500 production workers when a strike of 1000 maintenance men tied up several departments.

Army Needs Boys, N. E. Told

FORT DEVENS, Sept. 7 (AP)—Sixty thousand school-age boys will be needed monthly as replacements to maintain the Army's strength of 7,700,000, New England educators were told today by Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, commanding the First Service Command.

This, he added, was a "challenge to the schools to increase efforts" toward aiding students prepare for military service through pre-induction education.

Gen. Miles was one of several Army officers to address 80 educators from all sections of New England here to attend a two-day pre-induction training conference. The visitors will live in barracks, eat Army food and watch various training techniques.

Maj. Ralph C. Weinrich, chief of the pre-induction training section of the Army service forces headquarters, said "induction of young men into the Army will continue to the day of victory," adding the need for pre-service instruction in the schools "becomes more vital as the bulk of replacements is drawn from school-age youths."

Among the education representatives were: Connecticut, Paul D. Collier, director, bureau of youth service; Massachusetts, Julius E. Warren, state commissioner of education; New Hampshire, Russell H. Leavitt, high school agent, state department of education; Rhode Island, George H. Baldwin, assistant state director of education; Vermont, John C. Huden, state supervisor high schools, department of education.

Girl in Mystery Believed Alive

MOULTONBORO, N. H., Sept. 7—Authorities today awaited reports from a small Maryland town on the safety of "Virginia Hipschon," a camp counsellor, in what they first believed might be foul play.

Sheriff James Welch of Tamworth disclosed that mud-soaked feminine clothing found abandoned at Long Pond definitely has been identified as property of Camp Asquam and bore the stencilled name of the girl.

The sheriff said the camp closed Aug. 27 with all girls and counsellors accounted for, but that he had wired for confirmation from the camp owner who lives in Maryland just to make sure.

Walsh Fears Block Of Conversion Bill

By DAVID CAMELON
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—Fear that the solution to the question of human demobilization of war industries might face a deadlock were voiced here today by Sen. Walsh of Massachusetts.

Walsh spoke for the Senate and House conferees who have been laboring to reconcile sharply conflicting versions of the George bill for reconversion and unemployment compensation. He said:

"The heart of our trouble is unemployment compensation for federal workers. The Senate bill provided for those workers. The House rejected any unemployment compensation for federal workers. Thus far in the conference the representatives of each House have adhered to their stand."

He continued that there is "likely to be an impasse on this point." Asked what an impasse would mean, he said:

"If it persisted, it would mean that all action on the bill would be postponed indefinitely."

There is only one possible answer, he said. The Senate conferees already have suggested informally, and will make a formal request to the House representatives at their next meeting, that the House take a formal record vote on the question.

The House dodged the question of unemployment compensation for federal workers when it passed its skeletonized version of the George bill.

Standing firm throughout the day, the House group forced a compromise on retraining and reemployment which would set up an administrator with power only to co-ordinate existing programs.

Walsh indicated that the new director would be the veterans administrator, and pointed out that existing programs include only veterans and disabled civilians. He said:

"This would merely confirm existing activities of the government. It would take nothing away nor would it add anything."

Ex-Mayor Putnam Takes Federal Post

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 7—Former Mayor Roger L. Putnam, who resigned his Navy commission as a lieutenant-commander, has joined the Office of Contract Settlement in Washington, and assumed his new duties there today.

Geo. S. Harvey, Lawyer, Dies

George Stanley Harvey, 66, defense counsel for the Millen brothers a decade ago and long prominent in Boston legal circles, died today at Malden Hospital. His home was in Upham st., Melrose.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at First Universalist Church, Malden, with cremation and interment at Forestdale Cemetery, Malden.

His widow, Mrs. Isabelle Harvey, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Perry, of Malden, survive.

A native of St. John, N. B., he studied law in the office of the late Judge William H. Preble and was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1904. He served under the late Nathaniel Tufts as first assistant district attorney of Middlesex County and was prominent in Masonic and fraternal activities.

Nelson in China To Speed War

CHUNGKING, Sept. 7 (AP)—Donald Nelson, WPB chief, said today the primary purpose of the visit he and Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley now are making to China was "to see how we can lick Japan at the earliest possible date," and surveying all the problems, "I from the economic side and Hurley from the military side."

Nelson and Hurley met President Chiang Kai-Shek this morning.

In response to a question, Nelson said he had a mission in his recent visit to Moscow, but added: "I'd rather not discuss that."

Charles Dana Gibson Reported Recovering

DARK HARBOR, Me., Sept. 7 (AP)—Charles Dana Gibson, dean of American illustrators, was reported by his wife as doing "beautifully" after a recent 10-day confinement to Knox County Hospital, Rockland.

Lets Pictures Tell His Story

Harold Williams, 28, photographer's mate 1-c, USNR, has believed since he was a boy that one picture is worth 10,000 words.

He still does. After two years of serial reconnaissance in the South Pacific, he won't tell you 10 words about the war.

"My pictures told the story, and to the right people—the Navy," he said.

Home on a 30-day furlough, he is visiting his wife at Green Harbor. He is the son of Gus Williams of West Concord st., South End, who was a photographer for this newspaper for over 25 years.

Young Harold was also a news photographer on this paper for six years before joining the Navy, but ever since his graduation from Braintree High he has been taking pictures.

"Well, I did get wounded in a bombing. Yes, I did meet the enemy on two beachheads," he confessed.

"But I'll let my pictures do the talking until I come back after my next furlough. Then I'll give you a story with pix about the inside of Tokyo."

Soldiers' Sister Would Aid Buddies

Theresa Valcourt wants to send a package to the Christmas Gift for Buddies Overseas campaign because her two brothers overseas received such gifts through the same channel last year. And so she wants to do for other servicemen what other contributors did for them.

"I am sure that I have a personal reason for wanting to send a Christmas package to some serviceman overseas," she wrote from her home on Myrtle st., Lawrence, today. "You see, I have two brothers overseas, one in the Pacific, the other in Africa.

"Last Christmas they were very pleased when they received packages from someone whom they hadn't ever seen or met. I imagine they received them from someone who belongs to your club."

And an even more personal reason was given by Ph. M. 3c Michele J. Vitullo of the U. S. Naval Air Station, South Weymouth, who was himself overseas for the last two Christmases and now wants to make some other serviceman as happy as somebody's package made him.

"I would like to enroll for the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas," he writes. "I know what it is for some of the fellows when they are forgotten. I have been overseas for the last two Christmases, and I know I was happy when I received my Christmas packages.

"Now that I am back in the States enjoying myself, I would like to make somebody happy by not forgetting him. Please send me the details on the size and weight of the package. I don't care what branch of the service he is in.

The Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign is sponsored by the Record-American and Boston Sunday Advertiser. All overseas Christmas packages must be mailed between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15, for all branches of the service.

If you wish to enroll in this drive to ensure that no overseas soldier or sailor will be lonely and forgotten on Christmas Day, fill out and mail the coupon accompanying this article. For the benefit of our readers, here are gifts specially desired by the armed forces overseas:

Soldiers: Wallets, pipes and tobacco, cigarets and cigars, money orders, razor blades, small shaving kits, automatic pencils, stationery, playing cards, hard candy, soap, vacuum-packed nuts, wrist watches and pocket-sized books.

Sailors: Books, bedroom slippers, pocket knives, Bibles, shaving kits, toilet kits, tinned olives, sardines, nuts, wash cloths, steel mirrors, pipe tobacco, sheet music, magazines.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, a regular feature in the American.

HOW TO CURE A FEBRUARY COLD IN SEPTEMBER
FORGET the mustard foot-bath. But you actually can do something about preventing midwinter chills right now. Step down-cellar and have a frank interview with a forgotten friend — your furnace! Does it need cleaning? Checking? Have you talked to your dealer about installing one of these no-priority thermostats now available? They cost about $25 plus installation and will help in keeping your house at an even, coal-conserving temperature, with fewer trips down-stairs. Ask your dealer for Anthracite's conservation folder. By planning now to get all the heat possible out of your 87½% government allotment of Anthracite, you'll not only be more comfortable yourself next winter, but you'll help us stretch the extra millions of tons we're mining to millions of emergency-user families (many valuable war workers among them), so nobody goes cold.

which side was the permanent winner. Perhaps tomorrow or next week, but not today, so we turned back, and wouldn't you?

We reached a division wherein I discovered Capt. Philip Staples, the 1936 Harvard end, who is out of Philadelphia and was sitting in a pup tent CP (command post) in the most hubbly wilderness this side of a city dump.

Presently he hollered in a Dillon field house accent "Hey, Cotter," and from under a bush came PFC George F. Cotter of 7 Arthur st., Haverhill, whom I used to know when he lived in Natick before he married Mary Gallipeau.

BILLETED IN TOWN

Then Staples took off with me over a terrain that would have defied the drag hounds at Myopia, and for the first time in this war I saw U. S. soldiers billeted within a town as we of that other war had universally been.

There was PFC Edward Wolak of 173 Amherst st., Ludlow, who is mother Helen's only son, and said he was trying to locate his home town buddy, Lambert Bassonette, with whom he schooled, worked and was drafted.

And Pvt. William J. Cauley of 22 Jerome ave., Holyoke, a medical litter bearer who has carried as many as 60 casualties in a single battle.

And Cpl. Carroll B. Huntress of Maine ave., Keene, N. H., whose brother Jack used to read copy on the Record desk.

And 1 Sgt. Charles A. Day of 18 Bourne st., Lowell.

And Harold Johnson of 10 Carver st., Norwich, Ct., an ambulance driver.

BACK TO SCHOOL

An hour later, in a deep woods still slippery with last week's rain, I saw T-Sgt. A. Warren Hansen of 43 Marion rd., Watertown, who had only three months of married bliss with Elna Pollard before shipping overseas two years ago.

And Cpl. James V. Knight of 133 Union st., Manchester, N. H., a 6.4 giant whose education at Central High was interrupted by the draft board and who wants to go back. He is searching for his brother Edward, newly come to the Third Army.

I met Lt. Robert M. Balkam of 32 Prospect ave., Wollaston, before I took off on a flight cross country to a different theater. He outranks his wife, 2 Lt. Laurin Cooper of the Marines, now on duty in Washington.

And Lt. Ben Bellar of 35 Nazing st., Roxbury, an equipment officer who was partner with his dad Sam in the Jewelers building.

And Lt. William S. Scanlon of 20 Nelson st., Providence, an operations officer.

And Cpl. John F. Hilliard of 210 Spring st., Brockton, an operations clerk who recently met his sister Alice M., an Army nurse, in London.

BUT NO HAIRCUT

In a temporary encampment, on a Sunday, it seemed an opportune time to search for a haircut, and so apparently decided 50 other guys. I didn't get my frowsy locks trimmed, but I got the barber, Pvt. Andrew Papacoda of 207 Grand ave., New Haven, Ct., who once specialized in giving Yale men crew cuts.

In the chair, or rather sitting on a ration case, was Sgt. William J. Koen of 850 Humphrey st., Swampscott, Boston College '30.

And waiting in line was PFC John J. Regan of 119 West Newton st., Boston, another B.C.er.

At a crossroad was a tall blond MP directing traffic. I've chatted with this lad many times while waiting for jeep rides, but not until now had I asked him for the name of his native town. Sure enough, he's Cpl. Hubert R. Moran of 99 Dakota st., Dorchester.

A home street neighbor of Moran's, also an MP, was somewhere in the forest, PFC Howard Davidson of 39 Dakota st., Dorchester, but I couldn't find him.

TALKS OF CHILDREN

A jeep rolled by and the driver let out a yip and stopped. "Hey, Austen!" he bawled. I'd have known that plowshare jaw in the wilds of Africa - Cpl. Ed Joyce of 15 Governor's ave., Medford, who used to drive Boston American and Globe circulation trucks.

"Now here's a hot number," he said, winding through a leafy lane, and the number was Lt. Col. Gaspar Bacon of 216 Highland st., Dedham, former Lieutenant-Governor.

Lt. Col. Charles Codman, Gen. Patton's aide and brother to Russell, the single sculler, was not on hand, but Lt. Col. Morris C. Beldon of 3 Maybrook st., Dorchester, was, and talked wistfully about Eleanor Sue, 8, Michael, 5 and Nancy Jane, 3.

Also present was Lt. Col. Arthur F. Dias of 29 Chatham rd., Newton Highlands.

HIS LAST PICTURE

We stumbled on through the bushes and came to a little green tent, where I found T-Sgt. Erwin W. Smith of 1542 Commonwealth ave., Boston, who used to teach speech in New York. He took me down the line to a truck where men were loading captured enemy equipment.

And there was Sgt. Harold W. Adams of 841 Main st., West Newbury, who used to operate his own photo studio, and snapped his last picture of his infant son James before going overseas.

Where the perfumed scent of baked ham was most redolent, we came upon Sgt. Freeland A. Rowe of East Corinth, Me., who used to preside over the cook pots in a lumber camp, and says the loggers ate from better menus than the Army.

And Sgt. William J. Mulligan of 404 Hanover st., Manchester, N. H., who was a short order chef, and Pvt. Leo V. Simmons of 15½ Clinton st., Newport, R. I.

FIVE IN SERVICE

Near at hand was Pvt. Robert M. Eldgridge of 67 West st., Milford, a courier, who has four brothers in service—Jim, Jack and George in the Army, and Andrew in the Marines.

I hailed a passing staff car. It stopped, and inside was Maj. Irving R. Lyman of 64 Eaton st., Providence, Brown '34 and Michigan Medical '38, now a surgeon in the operational hospital here.

And Cpl. John D. MacMillan of 9 Monrovia st., Springfield, who plans to go back to his father's real estate firm.

And shortly before moonrise I discovered S-Sgt. Charles A. Pidano of 15 Hayden st., Roslindale, another of Bill O'Hare's clerks, South Postal Annex, the third I have met overseas.

2 Veterans Shot By Dropping Gun

Two men, wounded, police say, when a revolver they were examining in a doorway at Franklin and Washington sts., in downtown Boston, was dropped and accidentally discharged, were recovering from minor injuries today.

They are Leroy Parsells, 24, of Walford way, Charlestown, who is at City Hospital with a leg wound, and Walter Nicholson, Jr., 26, of Broadway, Somerville, discharged at the same hospital after treatment for a knee wound. Both men were recently medically discharged from the Army.

John Purchick, medical corpsman at Chelsea Naval Hospital, who was examining the gun with the other two, took the wounded men to the hospital.

Women's Clubs Aid Paper Drive

More than 75,000 members of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs today are contributing their time and efforts to the waste paper salvage drive in communities throughout the state, it was announced today by Mrs. Edwin Troland, Federation president.

"Our clubwomen expect to be of inestimable aid in the war effort by helping local salvage committees," Mrs. Troland said. "We hope to produce results not only in our own homes but in the homes of our neighbors and friends."

Part of the salvage drive planned by the women is a collection of old books to get under way next month by the Brockton's Woman's Club.

Ready Now

Anytime Germany wants to quit is all right with Barber Thomas Console, who is preparing to celebrate the moment peace comes . . . by quitting work. His explanatory sign is ready and held by Charles McFaden . . . as John Cathwood, in the chair and himself a South Pacific casualty, reads.

End the War VICTORIOUSLY
Make the Peace PERMANENTLY
Bring Our Boys Home PROMPTLY

Temperate V-Day

GOVERNOR SALTONSTALL anticipates no necessity for extraordinary action by the State Police or any other law-enforcement agency to curb Victory Day celebrations in Massachusetts.

"Our job is first to win the war. We shall consider the observances after it is won," Mr. Saltonstall wisely informed a recent press conference.

We believe that the Governor's faith in the people is justified. Men and women who have endured the headaches and heartaches of this conflict and who have known the pain of learning of a loved one's injury or death on the field of battle are not likely to desecrate victory and peace with boisterous merry-making.

Whatever violence attends V-Day is more apt to come from that minority of the population which has taken little or no part in the war and has consistently defied governmental regulations calculated to conserve essential materials and resources.

Let the lads who fought and won the war do the celebrating.

Let the rest of us unite in a sober prayer of thanksgiving that God in His infinite mercy is bringing so many of them home alive.

It's Really Terra Firma

THOUSANDS of persons, including those who slept through Tuesday morning's feeble earthquake, are seriously discussing the future danger of violent shocks like those which devastated large areas in Japan and Chile in years past.

A more useless conversational topic can hardly be imagined.

Almost without exception, geologists agree that the worst this part of the country can expect is a gentle shaking.

Of course, dishes may rattle, pictures may tumble and chandeliers may sway, now and then. But the odds are overwhelmingly against a New England roof crashing down on anybody's head.

The Eastern Seaboard ceased its convulsions thousands of years ago when billions of tons of ice which had covered the section melted, allowing the earth's crust to spring back to its original position.

Now our "terra firma" stirs only slightly and rarely in its sleepy old age.

Admiral Kimmel's Grief

NO AMERICAN will fail to sympathize with Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, whose son, a submarine commander and a Silver Star medal holder, has been reported lost in action.

Admiral Kimmel, who has repeatedly affirmed his innocence of the grave accusations made against him in connection with Japan's surprise attack on Pearl Harbor in December, 1941, has been denied the prompt trial he wants.

To be obliged to wait until the cessation of hostilities for the vindication he hopes to achieve must be heartbreaking for Admiral Kimmel.

But now, in the midst of seemingly endless waiting for justice, to learn that a beloved son has died in the war must be a sorrow almost too great to bear.

War Job for Everyone

THE TIME has come for Boston and New England really to mobilize in mighty force to bring forth one of our most vital wartime needs—PAPER.

Housewives, office workers, shop keepers, school children, public employes—all should join hands willingly in a monster waste paper salvage drive.

Thus, all patriots will be able to send thousands of tons of paper to war to hasten the toppling of Hitler and to speed the day of victory over the Japs.

On the Side By E. V. Darling

O Liberty, can man resign thee
Once having felt thy generous flame?
Can dungeons, bolts or bars confine thee,
Or whips thy noble spirits tame?
To arms! To arms! Ye brave!
The avenging sword unsheathe!
March on! March on! All hearts resolved
On victory or death!
—JOSEPH ROUGET DELISLE

AN IOWAN claims residents of his State celebrate the most golden weddings. Maybe so. But Iowa is an easy State in which to stay married. Temptation is at a minimum. Most of the people live on farms. Now, in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Hollywood it is different. In those places temptation and competition are great and it takes a strong character to remain married or hold a mate for 50 years.

IN PYSHT: "Now you have a reader in Pysht, Wash.," writes Sgt. Chet Swital of the Army Air Force. "When stationed at Paine Field, Wash., I got a three-day pass and went fishing at Pysht. There I saw a comely Indian maiden in a canoe with a leg dangling on each side in the eon clear water. She was carrying a miniature totem pole and had the Seattle Post-Intelligencer folded up so she was reading your column. How do I know all this? I bought the little totem pole."

SIDELIGHTS: Jeanette Ouillette of Fall River has been made a member of the My-Name-Is-a-Poem Club. So has Ruth Huth of Darien, Ct. . . . A dog expert claims the intelligence and general character of a dog reflects that of his master. Sounds all right, but I doubt it. I'll never be as smart, patient, kind, courageous or good natured as my dog.

Very Smart

SAYS SHE: Haven't heard from Susie, the super-duper housekeeper of California, lately but a young matron of Flushing, L. I., who has a six-room apartment, a husband, dog, goldfish and two children says she does all her housework in two hours, from eight until ten in the morning. "It is all in the planning," says she. "Too many women who take too long to do their work just flutter aimlessly about with no sense of efficiency. Husbands who are the suffering victims of inefficient housekeeping and of wives who are continually saying their work is never done should see that their mates get a little instruction in efficiency. There are schools in which domestic efficiency is taught."

REDHEADS: Note it claimed Eve was a redhead. I thought she was a blonde. However, my information on redheads appears to be not so good. A Beverly Hills beauty shop owner says: "Friends of mine have worked on all the women in Hollywood who have star ratings. You have several times stated there were two natural red-haired film stars. This is incorrect—there is only one."

WOMEN, ETC.: A Brooklyn girl complains one of my distinguished contemporaries is "unfair to women." Says she: "This is particularly resented at our house because in our family there are nine girls and one boy." This department does not want to become involved in the aforementioned columnist's difficulties with his female clients. However, we would like to be fair to women. To do so, we feel we should understand them better. We could use a little help in that direction. Now, take this Brooklyn girl's brother. He has nine sisters. All his life he has been surrounded by women. He should know something about the female of the species. Maybe we could sign him up for our Horses & Women Department to furnish us with a little inside stuff.

THE GRAVEYARD SHIFT (Midnight to 7 a. m.) has been abolished in war plants in some sections. The production record of this shift is usually not nearly as good as that of the swing and day shifts. Seems, for reasons not fully explained, the graveyard shift appeals to lazy people and "Good Time Charlie" types . . . Myra Kingsley, the distinguished star-gazer, says 1943-44 has been an outstandingly lucky year for Leos. Maybe it has for some Leos, but I haven't noticed anything unusual . . . Concetta Mistretta of Brooklyn has been made a member of the My-Name-Is-a-Poem Club. May Day Hay of Minneapolis has been similarly honored. All three of Mrs. Hay's names rhyme. That makes her the only triple-threat member of the club.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Have you another reader named Naida? Are Libra men usually hard workers? I don't think you will answer me. My husband said you would. I promised him a bottle of Scotch if you did. A—You are the only Naida on the list. As for Libra men, the stargazers say they like to have the best in everything. That takes money. So, to get the money, the Libra fellows will work hard. Too bad you don't live around my way. Maybe your grateful husband would like to invite me around to sample the Scotch.

SNAKES: There are 28 types of snakes in Maryland, but only two are poisonous. These are the rattler and copperhead. So states H. C. Robertson, Baltimore herpetologist. That's news to me, that there are rattlesnakes in Maryland. I will have to watch my step the next time I go tramping around the Eastern shore . . . But he doesn't say what Governors have dogs. So we don't know who are the 22 Governors who do not have dogs. How about His Excellency, the Governor in your State? Has he a contented pup?

BRIEFLY: A Californian says another film actress who was formerly a school teacher was Edna Purviance, once Charlie Chaplin's leading lady. That's news to me. I didn't know Edna had been a teacher. I'll bet she got a lot of apples . . . Am informed by a street railway man that Pittsburgh, Pa., which has more than 400 streamlined trolley cars, has the fastest streetcars in the United States. Some Pittsburgh cars average nearly 17 miles an hour.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—Joe Hendricks, of Florida, called me today to reveal he had just made an alarming discovery.

He said the average Washingtonian has become loath to buy anything unless granted the privilege of paying twice as much as the purchase is worth!

"If this thing becomes epidemic," he said, "Heaven knows where we will wind up. Things are coming to a pretty pass when people refuse to do business with you unless you cheat them.

I told Mr. Hendricks I could hardly believe a gentleman of his well-known integrity was deliberately trimming the citizenry.

"But I am," he insisted. "I am perpetrating a downright swindle!"

WELL, NATURALLY, when a duly elected member of Congress insists he is a con man you are bound to be intrigued. So I implored Mr. Hendricks for further details.

"It is this way," he said. "A couple of years ago I purchased two dictaphones. I paid $75 each for them. I might add that I bought them from the Government; they were surplus Government property, of which there seems to be quite a lot—and I am not making any cracks at anybody.

"I found out I had no use for them—the machines, I mean. My secretary, Miss Marion Gardner, did not like them, either. So they have just been cluttering up the office.

"I decided to sell them. I got a mechanic from the manufacturer to come in and check them. He pronounced them in perfect working order. So I advertised them at $75 each—exactly what I had paid for them.

"I got a few bidders. And those that did display interest invariably asked:

"'What is wrong with the machines?'

"I told them nothing was wrong and they said: 'But there must be: you can't buy a good dictaphone for $75!'

"Well, this sort of got my goat. So I turned around and advertised the same machines for $150 each. And guess what happened?

"I was immediately swamped with prospective buyers. I have not sold them yet because I am holding out for lower offers."

"I do not think I heard you right," I said. "What is it you are doing?"

"I am holding out for lower offers. If anyone wishes to buy the machines cheaper than the new bunco price of $150 I shall be glad to dicker with them. But if they think a $75 machine is better because it costs $150 I shall be delighted to see that they get stuck.

"By the way," added Rep. Hendricks, "I also have an addressing machine which cost $12.50. I shall be glad to sell it for $25!"

STEVE JUZWIK, former Notre Dame all-American and later star halfback with the Washington Redskins, is now handling physical training at the Navy Officers' Training School at Northwestern University

A big feature of the fitness program is swimming in the chill waters of Lake Michigan.

Anyway, the mother of one of the candidates became very concerned about this lake swimming.

"Isn't it terribly dangerous?" she asked Steve. "You have no life guards or anything like that."

"Listen, lady," said Mr. Juzwik, a comforting soul if there ever was one. "Nothing could be safer.

"If any of these boys cannot swim," he continued, "they can always turn over and float. The lake current is from the South."

"Very interesting," said the mother, "but what has the current got to do with it?"

"Why," said Steve, "the Great Lakes Naval Training Station is just 20 miles north of here. So, if a boy can't swim he will float right into a boot camp!"

Hollywood . . . . By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7—If Joan Bennett looks as pretty in technicolor as she did in the pink summer dress with matching snood at her luncheon, she will be a vision.

Walter Wanger told me that Joan is going to star in a technicolor drama, "So Gallantly Gleaming," by Harry Thew and Peter Ordway, with the screen play by Sonja Levien.

Joan Bennett

I asked Walter about the story and he said it was built on the career of Jessie Benton Fremont. Who was Jessie Fremont? Well, she was the wife of Gen. John C. Fremont, who opened up the West and Jessie, herself, was a woman of great courage and intellect.

THE BOX OFFICE DIGEST, out today or tomorrow, gives an amazing financial statement. The studios made their biggest profit in 1943. According to the Digest, the profit of all companies, excluding United Artists and PRC, which did not give a statement, was $64,211,967. In 1942 it was $53,216,488. According to the box office report, which claims to have polled the actual box offices, the 10 top actresses for 1943 are: First, Ingrid Bergman; second, Irene Dunne; third, Greer Garson; fourth, Betty Grable; fifth, Alice Faye; sixth, Judy Garland; seventh, Bette Davis; eighth, Dorothy Lamour; ninth, Olivia De Havilland; 10th, Jean Arthur.

DOROTHY LAMOUR takes off for New York the last of the week, and she leaves in a very happy frame of mind. Her last picture, "Medals for Benny," was previewed this week and she proved that she can be as dramatic as Paramount wishes. In fact, it's the best thing she has ever done. Henry Ginsberg decided after seeing "Medals" that Dottie and Arturo De Cordova are a good screen team, and so she and De Cordova will be co-starred in "Masquerade in Mexico."

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Familiar to fourth estaters and laymen alike is the cliche quite correctly asserting that "Names make news." Now, in order to make news, a "name" usually requires some sort of assistance from its owner. Occasionally, though, some of the names that make news have been made for interesting if unimportant situations without the slightest cooperation from the individuals attached to them.

Incredulous glances from hotel room clerks would scarcely be deemed a novelty by any of the nation's many authentic Mr. and Mrs. John Smiths. At the very outset of her career Gertrude Niesen found that a name far less common than John Smith can cause annoyance and amusement, too.

In her salad-ballad days, La Niesen's moniker was responsible for her being constantly confused with Greta Nissen, the Scandinavian glamour girl of the silent screen. The mental hazard created by the advent of a novice bearing a name so similar to that of a long established star evidenced itself in advertisements and publicity almost invariably referring to the budding thrush as "Greta Niesen" or "Gertrude Nissen."

Now Gertrude Niesen has really come into her own.

"Following the Girls" has established her as a topflight musical comedy personality.

Where, now, is Greta, the gremlin of Gertie's girlhood struggle for recognition? The final touch of irony would have some vague if well meaning individual mistaking Nissen for Niesen in direct contrast to yesterday's vice versa.

LOTS OF MEN have taken lots of thurgs from their partners, but I daresay only one has taken half of an associate's name. That would be Sam Goldwyn, whose real name was Sam Goldfish. It was many years ago that he and Edgar Selwyn founded a film company in partnership and combined syllables from each of their surnames to christen their venture "Goldwyn Productions." By the time the partnership was culminated, Sam had grown to like the sound of "Goldwyn" so well that he made it his name.

At the start of the business alliance, a wag suggested that the gentlemen involved had combined the wrong surname syllables—that they should have called the firm "Sel-Fish."

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7—When I walked on the set of "Anchors Aweigh," Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelly, both wearing sailor suits, were entertaining. Their guests were Richard Whorf and Gloria de Haven. The quartet was sitting around swapping yarns. I joined the group and listened, and after Dickie Whorf had told a show business tale Sinatra gave me a look, an odd look. Honest, I thought he was going to swoon.

Frank Sinatra

"That's a pretty tie you have on," Frankie-boy said.

"Do you like it?" I asked, trying to be casual.

"Very much," said Frankie-boy. "I wish I had one like it."

"If you really like it, you can have it," I said.

"Thanks very much," said Frankie-boy.

I took off the necktie and gave it to Sinatra.

"I didn't wear one to the studio today. I owe you a necktie," said Frankie-boy.

So here I am converting Sinatra from bowties to neckties, and I just want you bobby-sockers to know that when you swoon over Frankie-boy it's my necktie that's doing some of that sending.

OFTEN I HAD wondered about Charles Boyer and the story of his early days at Metro. If you recall, Boyer made his American picture debut in "Red Headed Woman" with Jean Harlow. He played the role of a chauffeur, had a brief scene, and then returned to France. It looked like another example of Hollywood giving talent the go-by.

Boyer is now making "A Woman's Privilege" with Irene Dunne, and while Director Charles Vidor was arranging his set-up I spoke to Boyer about his early screen career and he told me the true story.

Boyer had come to America to appear in some French versions of pictures. He was a popular star in France, and in those days the studios imported players for the foreign versions. Boyer didn't speak a word of English and was not supposed to appear in any American picture. Irving Thalberg, however, asked Boyer if he would play this "Red Headed Woman."

★ ★

BOYER SAID he would provided that the picture would not to be shown in France. Thalberg agreed.

And although "Red Headed Woman" was a big hit and Jean Harlow was very popular in France, this picture was never shown in that country.

George Holland
Boston After Dark

THAT DEVILISH GAME OF CROQUET was fated to bruise or hurt at last a member of the New York intelligentsia . . . Poor Moss Hart, author of "Winged Victory" (to cite a minor item of his brainchildren), is confined to his Bucks County, Penn., estate with a broken foot . . . Variety's story of the Hart undoing while playing his favorite sport says that the famous playwright had removed his shoes, the better to get a barefoot grip on the greensward of his private croquet court.

★ ★ ★

KNOWING LITTLE of "form" in croquet (and Variety's nuggs seemed to know less), this column finds it difficult to reconstruct the accident as it happened . . . But the doughty Mr. Hart seems to have crushed his foot while trying to smite the croquet ball with his mallet . . . Perhaps, like Mell Ott's baseball form, the Hart croquet form requires a flourish of the foot—a sort of wind-up—before taking a cut at the ball . . . At any rate, home lies Mossy while Hollywood (and the film, "Winged Victory") bides its impatient time for his recovery.

★ ★ ★

THE INCIDENT IS VALUABLE to this selfish department because it promulgates an undertaking long-contemplated, a superificial study of "Croquet among the Long-Hairs of the Theater and Literachoor." . . . When Herbert Bayard Swope was editorial master of the lamented old New York World, croquet flourished over the meadows of fashionable Long Guyland . . . The Swope estate in Manhassett had its croquet pasture, and as the Longwood Cricket Club was to lesser tennis-establishments, it was the Cathay of the game.

★ ★ ★

NEYSA MacMEIN, Alexander Woollcott, George S. Kaufman and F. P. Adams were among the croquet sharps . . . So were other famous members of the Thantopsis Inside Straight Club like Heywood Broun, Russel "Buck" Crouse, Theron Bamberger, Dorothy Parker (of course), and the saturnine Ring Lardner . . . The boys and girls played regularly and along a circuit which included the courts of Miss MacMein and Thyra Samter Winslow . . . And the games were for blood . . . Wisecracks, or bon mots as they were called by the cognoscenti of the lively arts, were barbed, and so venomous at times that they left festers.

★ ★ ★

YET IN the thirty-odd years since croquet has flourished in Long Guyland and in Bucks County, Penn., not a single casualty—except verbal has come to public attention until Playwright Hart bashed himself into bed with a fractured (malibone) foot . . . The game has been somewhat delinquent in thrills, perhaps for that very low incidence of catastrophe . . . So what we propose today is a crusade to restore croquet to its rightful place as a sport harmless to our too-few luminaries of the playsmith's trade, and the novelist's and essayist's . . . We ask your support in a campaign, the opening gun of which will be fired at the Bucks County, Penn., authorities and which will demand that "RESOLVED: Croquet henceforth shall be played with shoes on"

It's New in Foundations

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

GATHER 'ROUND, girls, and hear the glad news . . . a foundation that gives you the same wonderful smooth complexion as a pancake make-up, but isn't drying to the skin.

Goodness knows those pancake make-ups are grand . . . but most of them, unfortunately, do have a drying effect, and girls who use them constantly have been wailing about their skins. Personally, I love them, but use mine only on special occasions because I want to conserve those youth-giving oils.

So I was greatly interested in a foundation lotion I had read about, and after trying it for a week can report that it is all that its famous creator claims. He is practically a god in Hollywood, and brought this out in answer to wails from the screen stars.

It is a super-smooth, liquid cream, tinted to match your skin tone, in six lovely shades. It is about the only cosmetic we know whose manufacturer pleads that you use it sparingly. A dollar and a half a jar should last at least six months, and some women go through a whole year on it.

Moreover, it is speedy to use. You shake the bottle well, then place your finger over the bottle opening and turn it upside down. Place the dot of the creamy liquid on your forehead. Do likewise with four more dots . . . on the nose, cheeks and chin. Then smooth it over your face and down into the neck, remembering the hairline area.

With this delicate foundation, you have a lovely make-up that conceals small blemishes and keeps your powder and rouge fast all day . . . and it hasn't that mask-like look at all. In fact, it gives you a fresh, natural look that is flattering no end.

Call the Beauty Department, LIBerty 4000, or write me enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, for further details about this foundation lotion.

YOU CAN HAVE a lovely, creamy complexion like that of Aileen Haley, Hollywood starlet, by using a liquid cream make-up foundation which will not dry your skin.

Her Mother Disagrees

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I'm a high school student almost 16 years of age. My parents both work and mother comes home every other day. I don't go out on dates unless a serviceman I know is on leave and comes to the house and asks to take me out.

I like the Navy, and sailors are the only dates I have and none are over 19 years of age. Mother doesn't approve of them and says I should choose one boy and wait for him. I don't see things that way.

My grandmother always interferes and tells me what's good and what isn't. I'm Scotch and stubborn besides. Do you think I should forget all the servicemen I know completely to satisfy my family? L. M. K.

You're not yet 16 years of age, and while I hesitate to disagree with your mother, I think a girl of your age is definitely too young and inexperienced to "choose one boy and wait for him."

Apparently your mother makes no objection to your going out with a serviceman with whom your family is acquainted. But even if you like the Navy, and who doesn't, I think any careful mother would like to know something of the young men with whom her daughter, only 15 plus, has dates.

Try to Serve Fish Oftener During Next Few Weeks

ONE WAY TO RENDER a patriotic service and at the same time be assured of a more even supply of certain foods this winter, is to serve fish oftener than usual during the next few weeks. The fish landings in this area have been heavier than last year, and quantities of frozen fish are occupying storage space badly needed for later catches.

Haddock and cod are among the fish now in most plentiful supply. Most of this frozen stock is in the convenient filleted form.

BROILED FILLETS

2 lbs. fillets of cod or haddock
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ tsp. salt ¼ tsp. pepper
Paprika

Wipe fillets with damp cloth and place on an oiled rack of broiler pan. If skin is left on fish, fish should be placed on rack skin side down. Brush top of fish with butter; season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with paprika. Place fish in a preheated broiler and broil two inches from the heat for about 15 minutes or until brown. Then turn and brush with butter, season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with paprika. Continue broiling until done. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED COD IN TOMATO SAUCE

2 lbs. cod fillets ½ tsp. salt
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 small onion, minced
2 tbsp. celery, minced
2 tbsp. green pepper, minced (optional)
3 tbsp. flour ⅛ tsp. pepper
2 cups tomato (strained)

Wipe fish with a damp cloth then arrange in oiled baked pan. Cook garlic, onion, celery and green pepper in oil until tender but not brown. Add flour and, when smoothly blended, tomato, and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Add seasonings. Pour over the fish and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED HADDOCK FILLETS

2 lbs. haddock fillets ½ tsp. salt
⅓ cup melted fat
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. minced onion
⅓ cup finely chopped parsley

Wipe the fish, remove any bones, and cut into pieces for serving. To the melted fat, add the lemon juice, minced onion, and salt. Dip each piece of fish in this mixture and place in a greased, shallow baking dish, and pour the rest of the fat over the fish. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. If not sufficiently browned, put under the flame of the broiling oven. Sprinkle the parsley over the fish and serve. Makes 6 servings.

SAVORY FILLETS OF HADDOCK

2 lbs. haddock fillets
1 bay leaf
1 clove garlic
2 tbsp. salad oil
3 cups tomato pulp
2-3 tsp. salt
1-6 tsp. pepper
6 whole cloves
Pinch of thyme, marjoram or basil

Mince garlic very fine and cook 2 minutes in oil. Add tomato, seasonings and flavorings and simmer until thick, about half an hour. Arrange fillets in a pan, pour sauce over them and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Wednesday—I have been getting many letters lately about the question of housing for service people stationed in different parts of the country.

Workers are somewhat better taken care of, since there is defense housing which is sometimes available to them. But few seem to have considered the needs of men on limited service who want their families with them, or of men who will soon be going overseas and who also want their families with them.

* * *

IN ADDITION to this difficulty, I have recently had an entirely new housing problem presented to me. It is one to which I have given little thought, and I am going to quote from a letter describing this condition:

"I really wanted to write you about the apartment situation for single people. All federal housing projects seem to make provision only for families. While this is good social planning, we single people pay heavy taxes, are no drag on the community and are at present forced to exist in furnished rooms.

"I have been looking for a two-room apartment for $35 off the beaten track in the low rent districts, and have been unable to find anything except old-law tenements without heat.

"You may be familiar with the rents charged in your neighborhood in Greenwich Village. This has been the subject for amusing motion pictures, but it's time people took it seriously."

* * *

TO A GREAT MANY people, I suppose, this whole housing question seems futile to consider at the present time because, they feel, the war will soon be over and then what use will all these houses be?

Yet the housing question is very much tied up with the development of industry after the war. If we maintain full employment wherever we have a big industrial installation, we will need to have housing after the war just as much as we do now.

To be sure, much of our future housing should be done on a much more permanent basis, and for the most part by private enterprise if wages are sufficiently high for workers to pay a reasonable sum in rent.

Before this permanent building can go forward, however, financing, planning and the procuring of materials must be accomplished.

If factories are to keep on going, temporary housing may easily be extremely important for the first few years, even if it all is scrapped later on. So it seems to me that the present needs should be faced and solved.

Afternoon Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
1—My wedding is to be in the afternoon, and my mother and the bridegroom's mother are to wear street-length dresses. Do they wear hats, gloves, and carry bags?

2—Do I, the bride, come down the aisle on my father's right or left arm? M. S.

1—If yours is to be a church wedding (as I judge by your second question it is to be), yes, the mothers should wear hats, either matching or contrasting with their dresses, gloves, and carry small afternoon purses. If the wedding is to be in your home, your mother, the hostess, would not wear a hat or gloves.

Beware in Selecting Hat

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THIS is probably one of the hardest jobs you are going to have this fall, picking your new hat. That is if you are style minded and want to take up with the new big and massive hats that are the top of the style heap. If you are a girl with a small and delicate look about you, beware of the over large, extra ponderous hat, be it one with a brim, a turban, a toque or a beret. Otherwise you'll look more like Junior in one of grandma's big hats. If you are a girl with a large head and plenty of hair, then you have to watch out, too. Don't make your head look gigantic by picking a huge hat.

The way to avoid pitfalls is the old one of doing all things in moderation, and in proportion of what you have got in the way of weight and general looks. You can have a hat that looks big enought to be exciting without overwhelming yourself.

Two Sunday Bridals

By BETTY ALDEN

FOR BOSTON'S 400, who love nothing better than festive society weddings, Sunday will be a double-header occasion. Big weddings are few and far between nowadays when so many brides pack their satin and old lace and go off to distant cities for post-chapel weddings.

The good news that their best beaux were heading home came yesterday to two pretty post-debs each of whom has chosen Sunday for her day of days.

Mary Joss Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Parker of Wayland, will become the bride of John Hawkins, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hawkins of Lake Forest, Ill. Rev. Theodore Ferris of Trinity and Rev. Alfred Starratt of Lincoln will marry the couple in St. Anne's in Lincoln and a reception will follow at the Parkers'.

On her bridal day Mary will be attended by Mrs. John Bagby, Mrs. Kendall Yerxa and Carol Hawkins. The groom's dad will be best man and the ushers will be Francis V. Hatch, John Wright and J. Reed Morse. Mary came out in 1940 at a series of pleasant parties including a ball at the Ritz, a luncheon at The Country Club and a swimming and tennis party in Wayland. She is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

The other wedding will be on the North Shore when Olivia Ames, popular daughter of Mrs. Edward L. Bigelow and the late Lt. Oliver Ames, Jr., who lost his life in World War I, will be married to Lt. William DeForest Manice, Jr., USNR, of Old Westbury, L. I., and Newport. Olivia left for New York last night to meet her fiance who has been on duty in the Pacific.

Sugar Supply In N. E. Assured

There is no shortage in the New England sugar supply, the OPA assured today, except in Hartford and Providence, although some dealers are short of 5-pound packages.

Some of the refiners have been putting up sugar in 100-pound bags, to which there has been some objection by dealers.

The week ending Sept. 2 saw Boston short at the industrial institutional level, due, it was believed, to the fact that bottlers during the summer had used up their reserves.

MEN, WOMEN OVER 40
RUNDOWN, LISTLESS?
GET NEW PEP, VIM
END THAT TIRED FEELING

Why be tired, nervous, old at 40, just because your body is not getting a sufficient daily amount of Iron, Iodine and Vitamins A, B, and D. Many people have that "run down" feeling and never realize that an extra supply of these much needed elements may be just what they need. Check up on yourself now! Do you have all the energy and endurance you want or are you one of those who may need a little extra help by adding Iron, Iodine and Vitamins A, B1, and D to your diet.

OLD AT 40-50-60?

Old age arrives when the body no longer builds new cells to replace old cells as fast as they wear out. Iron and Iodine, important cell building factors, help fight the onset of OLD AGE.

Nervous, Irritable?

Are ragged jumpy nerves making you irritable, cross and out of sorts with yourself? High tension and nervousness may be due to a deficiency of Vitamin B1 and Iodine. Don't overlook these factors when your "nerves" are on edge.

PALE, LISTLESS?

Radiant, robust, energetic blood that makes life really worth while is priceless. If you are pale, listless, and all in, an added supply of Iron, Iodine and Vitamins A, B, and D may be just what you need.

WEAK, TIRED?

A mineral starved body, a body starved for Iron and Iodine, weakens quickly and tires easily. You must get enough Iron and Iodine for strength with Vim, Pep and Vitality.

IRON-IODINE VITAMINS A, B1, D

Hiran is a fine combination of Iron and Iodine plus Vitamins A, B, and D that helps many people enjoy better health so it helps overcome or guard against a deficiency of the important vitamins, no matter what your work may be, you need and should have all you natural have normal strength, energy and endurance.

TEST WITHOUT RISK: Use all the tablets, according to directions, in a bottle of Hiran. If you do not feel better generally, with more energy and vitality, this test is without cost . . . your money will be refunded.

'Double Indemnity' Stays at Para-Fenway

Paramount and Fenway patrons are flocking to see "Double Indemnity" in such numbers that the Fred MacMurray-Barbara Stanwyck-Edward G. Robinson starring murder mystery thriller is being held a second week on the twin M. & P. screens.

The picture, adapted from James M. Cain's best-selling novel, is a spine-tingler that keeps one on chair's edge until the grisly finish.

Arlington JVA Unit Sets Mark

With honors won in ragweed eradication and victory gardening, the Arlington Wildcats Junior Victory Army Corps, most of whose members also are enrolled in 4-H work, is turning to a new series of home front war projects.

The Wildcats won first prize, a $5 award and a Blue Seal, in the state 4-H agricultural exhibit last week, it was recently announced.

One of the most livewire groups in the all-out ragweed destruction drive waged by the JVA this summer, the Wildcats destroyed over five-and-a-half tons of the weed pest, it was estimated yesterday.

Among the new projects to which the members are turning, is a drive to collect books, magazines, and games for veterans' hospitals. On special request of the War Production Board, they also are gathering milkweed pods and cat-tails. These are processed and used in making lifejackets for servicemen, according to Leader Henry F. Keenan.

Getting the most out of their summer 5000-foot square victory garden, the Wildcat boys and girls are now taking part in a community canning project, Mr. Keenan said. The corps has been meeting every Thursday and Friday for instruction and aid in canning victory vegetable and fruit crops.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enrollment, you wish the membership card and insignia pin, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Look for the next Junior Victory Army story in Friday's Daily Record.

Red Sox Eager for Final Pennant Bid

By JACK CONWAY

The Red Sox will make their final bid for pennant recognition in the American League when they battle the Yanks in a four-game series that opens tomorrow. For Joe Cronin's club to keep in the flag struggle, it will have to win three out of four from the Yanks.

Deprived of the services of Hughson, Wagner and Doerr, who have entered service, it does not seem likely that the Sox will forge out front in the stirring American League pennant race. I am still inclined to believe that either the Tigers or the Yanks have a better chance to beat out the Browns than the Sox. The Yanks have taken over the league leadership as a result of the insistence on the part of the Browns to lose ball games.

Dizzy Trout

The collapse of the Browns has not been sudden. It has been going on for several weeks. It is unlikely that a schedule that enables the Browns to play most of the remaining games at home will be sufficient to offset the club's slipping tendencies.

As we have pointed out before, the success of the Yanks has been due more than anything else to the managerial genius of Joe McCarthy.

The latter has profited by some of the schoolboy mistakes of rival managers, and has kept his club in the thick of the flag fight.

The Tigers have the best club in the league. Sparked by Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout, both of whom will win 25 games this year, Detroit has shown an abundance of first class baseball. In the closing drive, it can go on to win.

Newhouser and Trout are super pitchers like Tex Hughson. It is amusing to hear some of the ballyhoo artists compare pitchers up from the minors like Rex Cecil and Clem Drieswerd to Hughson, Trout and Newhouser. Pitching is an art, and one does not gain perfection in it until he has been through big league fire.

Personally I thought what chances the Sox had of winning the pennant ended when Hughson joined the Army. Newcomers like Cecil and Dreiesewerd looked brilliant in one game, while in the next they are likely to appear as minor league flingers. It takes more than wishful thinking to take over the berth of a star like Hughson.

$25,000 Dog Purses

One of the most interesting sports items of the year was the announcement of the Joe Lindsey-Tom Pappas Dighton dog track that it was giving away $25,000 in purses this week. This included a $5000 purse for Saturday night's Derby.

I have felt that the owners of greyhounds have got very little out of the booming dog track buisness. While horsemen have profited by increased purses, the purses at dog tracks has been small in comparison to the record mutuel handles.

Dog racing would benefit if the men who owned and trained the dogs had enough money to live in the better places and to enjoy some of the luxuries of life. I hope that the move on the part of the Dighton management marks a new era for the owners of the greyhounds.

Unique Grid Program at Lynn

Schoolboy football will swing into its greatest opening in history tomorrow night—although unofficially—when 18 suburban high schools gather their squads at Manning Bowl, Lynn, for five 15-minute games under the floodlights.

The tilts will be primarily scrimmage affairs to give coaches a line on their teams, a plan conceived by Bill Joyce, master-mind of the Lynn Classical eleven.

Pairings, arranged so that no team would play a regularly scheduled rival, will pit Beverly vs. Lynn Classical, Salem vs. Lawrence, Revere vs. Everett, Peabody vs. Saugus and Lynn English vs. Swampscott. The first game will get underway at 8 p. m. All proceeds will go toward the upkeep of the Bowl.

Braves Pound the Farm Champs, 11-6

HARTFORD, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Hartford Senators, recently crowned Eastern League champions, absorbed an 11-6 thumping from the parent Boston Braves of the National League tonight in an exhibition game.

The Braves, batting against four Hartford southpaws, rapped out 13 hits, including three by Max Macon and a home run by Charley Workman.

Jim McDaniels Choice Over Ralph

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Broadway price-makers have installed Jimmy McDaniels of Los Angeles a 9 to 5 favorite over Ralph Zannelli of Boston in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Both welterweights finished their training yesterday.

Facts and Conditions Point Toward Tigers

BIG FOUR IN A. L.—One of this quartet of managers in the American League will be leading his team into the World's Series against the St. Louis Cardinals. They are, left to right, Joe Cronin of the fourth-place Red Sox; Steve O'Neill of the third-place Detroit Tigers; Luke Sewell of the second-place St. Louis Browns, and Joe McCarthy of the league leading New York Yankees.

By FRED HOEY

When Ruffus Gentry of the Detroit Tigers knocked off the White Sox, 3-2, last night and reduced his team's trailing margin to 1½ games behind the Yankees and a full game behind the St. Louis Browns he served notice on the baseball world that his name must be added to those of Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser and possibly Stubby Overmire in the drive for the American League pennant.

By winning last night's battle the Tigers have reduced their away-from-home assignments to just five, the same that faces the Browns in the home stretch. But it is the home assignments of these two contenders that cause eye brows to lift.

For instance, of the 23 remaining games ahead of the Tigers, 18 of these are at Navin Field, Detroit. The Browns have 17 at-homes at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis.

Now we'll look at the schedule ahead of the Yankees and the Red Sox. The champions have only two home games remaining on their slate, while they go out in the hinterlands and play 19. And the Yanks haven't been too hot in the West this season. The Red Sox have four games left at home, these coming tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday with the Yanks. Then for the road where 17 games await them.

Admitting the managerial genius of both Joe McCarthy and Joe Cronin the Yanks' boss can't take his Stadium right wall with him. Neither can Cronin pack his chummy left field at Fenway Park in Trainer Greene's trunk. On the other hand, the Tiger team was made to order for Navin Field.

BATTING PRACTICE VITAL

Another important and vital factor in these remaining games will be batting practice. The home teams, and we have Detroit and St. Louis in mind, may have an hour or more practice every day in their own back yard. The visiting teams are limited to just 20 minutes batting dirll prior to fielding practice.

The Red Sox and Yanks have divided the 18 games they have played so far. The Red Sox have won nine and lost ten to the Browns with three more in St. Louis. The Sox have split 16 games with the Tigers and have four more to play in Detroit.

Now taking the Yanks, they have won 10 and lost eight to the Browns with four more in St. Louis. The Yanks have won only seven and lost 12 to Detroit with three more in Detroit. This doesn't look very good for the Yanks.

On the other hand the Browns have won 13 and lost only nine to Detroit with their schedule completed.

Cold facts and figures would seem to indicate that the Detroit Tigers are sitting in a very pretty and attractive spot in this merry scramble for the American League flag.

Joe M'Carthy Magic Touch Spurs Yanks

By BILL CORUM

Have you seen those headlines? Of course you have; everybody has. And this is a holiday holdover—not a hangover, mind you—for your correspondent, and for any Yankee fan. For, no matter where you look, the Yanks are winning. The Yanks take Antwerp and Brussels. The Yanks take two at the Stadium. The Yanks bomb Jap installations. The Yanks blast out 24 runs.

Before I have you noddin' your noggin like a spectator at a tennis match—the Yanks did all right at Forest Hills, too, when the Army's Sgt. Frankie Parker came out on top in a tournament in which South America's Pancho Segura was expected to win—I would like to point out that it looks like a Yankee season globally. However, we'll put the sure things on the shelf such as Hitler and Hirohito and proceed to the business at hand.

Now this calls for a long Missouri pause, or as my friend Grad Sears, an old Missourian from the Nodaway County country would say, "Corum, careful where you tread." Well, my man Sears just returned from the buzz-bombed regions of London so he'll understand me playing a hunch on a Yankee season.

McCARTHY HAS A WAY

I've been for the Browns and have been rootin' 'em in all season long. I figured the Red Sox had a good chance until they lost Tex Hughson. But I know Marse Joe McCarthy, and at this point I'm afraid we'll have to go by the records (now Joe don't take that afraid as an affront). I'm a senior circuit man, which is to say the National League and the St. Louis Cardinals. So I know you'll understand that the Yankee situation is the one under discussion.

It could very well be that the Men of McCarthy have again sensed that the kill is at hand. After all, they're kinda used to seeing those pennants flying over the Bronx Bowl that "Babe" built. And they're behaving accordingly. Just consult the box scores. Lindell and Martin two homers apiece yesterday . . . not world-beaters as major league ball players go, but money players under Marse Joe. Little Snuffy Stirnweiss steals number "49." That gets me back to the headline business, but there it is and it reads Yankees and no matter how often you look at it the Bronx Bombers are half a game in front. The Yanks have 21 games remaining; the Browns 22. They are even on the lost column, and that's where it matters.

After all, I am not a fellow to go about changing horses in midstream, and up above, if you'll notice, I sort of declared myself for the season, I. e.: that I have been a Brownie man in the junior circuit. But on the strength of this holiday headline business I have to say again that it looks like a Yankee season.

JOE BACKED BY RECORDS

This is not as much of a hunch as you might think. Because any time any one says it looks like a Yankee season they can go right to the records. I am thinking somewhat of the Yankee record books that were closed on Nov. 11, 1918; I am thinking of the Yankee records that have been set up by Joe McCarthy and if I failed to leave out another Irishman what would my Mother say. I am thinking of the records that are being written, created, surpassed—any word you like—by one George Patton, general of the United States Army.

And with that as a final note on this headline today we'll take from another Irishman, George M. Cohan, a message to Luke Sewell . . . The Yanks Are Coming.

60-Yard Run Is Yank Headache

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6 (INS)—A 60-yard touchdown run by Tom Colell, on the second play of the game, gave the Cleveland Rams a 9-0 victory tonight over the Boston Yanks, in a National League exhibition game.

The Rams scored their other two points in the second period when Steve Pritko tackled Ken Steinmetz after the latter had fumbled on an attempted punt behind his own goal line.

Yale Swimmer Killed in Plane

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 7 (AP)—Yale Swimming Coach Robert J. Kiphuth said last night he had been notified by officials of the Pensacola Naval Air Station that Lt. Rene A. Chouteau, U. S. M. C., one of Yale's all-time swimming stars, had been killed in a plane crash. No other details were given.

Graduated from Yale in 1942, Chouteau won the National Collegiate Athletic Association award that year as the nation's top-ranking swimmer. In 1942 NCAA competition he won the 440-yard freestyle and 1500-meter events, in addition to placing third in the 220-yard dash. He was high scorer of the meet and paced Yale to the team championship.

Lt. Chouteau was a native of St. Louis, and prepared for Yale at Roosevelt High School in that city.

Pro Golfers Have Another Bond Date

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Sept. 7 (AP) — The National Professional Golfers Association, which since January has been instrumental in raising $100,000,000 for the war effort, will be keeping another war bond date today with the start of the $10,000 Texas Victory Open.

As a field of 71 professionals and 110 amateurs moved to the tee and those Texas golfing pals of yesterday—Byron Nelson, now of Toledo, and Ben Hogan, of Fort Worth Army Air Field—were installed as favorites in the 72-hole four-day affair, Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the P. G. A., checked up and found the hundred million to have been raised in bond sales from appearances of the touring pros and from exhibitions staged from coast to coast.

Corcoran also revealed that the professionals have played for $200,000 in war bond prizes and before the year is over will have contested for $300,000.

Nelson has drawn the biggest share of the winnings—$36,500. Hogan will be making his third tournament appearance in a year and a half but the way he has been taking the course apart here this week has installed him as the man for Lord Byron to beat for the top prize of $2000.

Jockeys Hurt At Aqueduct

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Howard Cruz, veteran steeplechase jockey, was seriously injured yesterday in a spill during the third race before 19,202 at Aqueduct racetrack. His physician said he suffered a "severe concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the jaw."

Cruz was astride the 11-year-old Navarin in the hurdle event. Both horse and jockey sprawled on the turf after clearing the fifth obstacle. Cruz was rushed to a nearby hospital while Navarin, a leg broken, was destroyed.

The spill overshadowed an injury to Jockey Conn McCreary in the fifth race and the victory of Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Sun Herod in the $10,000 Babylon Handicap for juveniles. McCreary was cut about the head after his mount, Turf R. became cast in his stall while at the post.

National Junior Events at Medford

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Clara Lamore, ace of the Olneyville's, will be leading a team of eight swimmers from that popular Providence, R. I., club to the Tufts Square Pool, Medford, Saturday afternoon for the National Junior Championships to be held in conjunction with the Record-American-Sunday-Advertiser-Medford Youth Commission meet.

Miss Lamore, holder of more water marks than any girl competitor in New England, will be out to add four National crowns to her lengthy list of championships.

Disappointed at her results in the Nationals in Kansas City last month, Miss Lamore will go whole hog in these Juniors. She'll be entered in all four championship events—the 100 meters freestyle, the 100 meters backstroke, the 100 meters breaststroke and the 200 meters breaststroke. And unless there's more than one surprise in store, it may turn out to be a clean sweep for the youthful star.

Olneyville's other entries will include Louise Sherlock, New England A. A. A. U. half-mile champion, in the 100 meters freestyle and breaststroke championships; Barbara Milliken in the Nationals freestyle; Joe Baclawski in the 100 meters Juniors freestyle and Matt Lojko, Allan Willoughby, Joe Turrone, Hal Anderson and Arnold Evans in the open events.

CLARA LAMORE SEEKS MORE HONORS — Capable Olneyville, R. I., swimmer is after National Junior titles in the big meet at Medford next Saturday.

NEW YORK GIRLS COMING

The Women's Swimming Ass'n of New York city will be sending a quartet of girls who will bear plenty of watching. This group will have Betty Shields in the freestyle and backstroke championships; Marie Corriden, the baby of the outfit, in the backstroke and Barbara Yodice and Charlotte Whitehouse in the breaststroke swims. They're the class of the New York girl swimmers.

As an added feature to the program, the Watchung Lake Swimming Club of Maplewood, N. J., under the direction of Kay Meyers, will present a series of exhibitions. These will feature Pat McWhorter, former National champion, who will also be entered in the 100 meters freestyle open event for women.

The meet will get underway promptly at 3 p. m. with 50-meter freestyle tests for 10-11 and 12-13 year old boy and girl graduates of the Learn to Swim program conducted this summer.

Sarno Forces Eagles' Squad

With 90-odd candidates out for the squad, Moody Sarno has been having his hands full for the past few days at the Boston College practice sessions at Alumni Field.

At yesterday's drill he selected temporary teams and had them going through the few basic plays of the T formation. On one team he had Joe Lannan, 219-pounder from Milton and letterman, Pete Boleyko, at guards, Dave Williams of Winthrop and John Callahan of Haverhill at ends, and George Donelan, returning veteran at center. In the backfield were "Lefty" Walsh, former pitching star at Cathedral, at quarterback and Joe Elliott of Belmont, Paul McGillicuddy of English and Maurice Crounse of Brookline.

Another practice is scheduled for today for the Eagles who open the season Oct. 7 against Harvard at the Stadium.

Phillies May Have New Pilot

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7 (AP) — The Philadelphia Record said today that the Phils will name a 1945 manager within a few days but General Manager Herb Pennock declines to say whether Freddie Fitzsimmons will be retained or not.

Commenting on rumors that Bucky Harris may replace Fitzsimmons, the story quotes Pennock as saying:

"Absolutely nothing to it. I have talked to Bucky on several occasions recently. In fact, I had a chat with him only a few days ago, but it was strictly a business conversation about other teams and other players in the league ... there is nothing in that managerial business."

"Fitz has done well with what he had," Pennock told the Record.

The Phillies are in last place in the National League, one game behind Brooklyn.

Match Zanelli Against Welch

Professional boxing will return to Boston with a bang Friday night, Sept. 22, when Promoter Rip Valenti will end a debate of long standing in pairing Coley Welch, Portland, Me., and Ralph "The Ripper" Zanelli, Providence, R. I., in a 12-round battle for the New England middleweight championship, at the Garden.

It'll be a match between a pair of young veteran fighters who know every trick of the ring and neither is the least bit reluctant in employing them.

It'll be a match for New England fans between two of New England's rugged battlers. For years, fight fans have been comparing the ring prowess of their individual favorites but there was little common means of comparison with the pair fighting in different classes. Zanelli has been long recognized as a welterweight while Welch has confined his fisticuffing to the middleweight division.

Zanelli will be taking a step up, having reached into the 150-odd pound figures to become a full-fledged middleweight. He has fought overweight matches before but this will be a serious bid for recognition in the upper bracket. Before this Welch fight, Zanelli will make his debut in the Madison Square Garden where he will meet Jimmy McDaniels, Cal., tomorrow night.

Welcome

Children in the Belgian town of Seloignes wave homemade flags as they greet American soldiers who entered their country from France . . . perhaps realizing that their liberators are insuring their growing up in a free country, undominated by Nazi influences . . . and armies.

Nazi Fuel

An American soldier looks over the long row of carefully camouflaged fuel storage tanks, captured during Yank advance in France. So fast was the American advance that the Germans did not have time to destroy the precious fuel before they abandoned the town.
